Iron bars do not spirit take

Those who find themselves spending Christmas in jail may not have a tree with all the trimmings, but when it comes time to eat, they will partake of the holiday atmosphere.

Matron June Albright reports that the Dec. 25 menu will include ham, sweet potatoes, lima beans, Christmas salad, relish tray, pumpkin pie, oranges and candy.

Those serving time in the Indiana State Farm will have some of their faith in Santa Claus restored when they sit down to roast turkey and dressing, mashed potatoes and giblet gravy, green beans, buttered peas, cole slaw, cranberry sauce, dinner rolls, cherry pie and hot chocolate. The holiday menu has been prepared by Shelle Hoskins of the Farm's food service.

Betty Lanham of the Putnam County Hospital's Dietary department reports that the patients will be offered a Christmas meal consisting of roast turkey and dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, buttered broccoli with cheese sauce, Christmas salad, iced angel food cake and hot rolls with butter.

Both turkey and ham will be included on the Christmas menu at Green Acres, according to Mrs. George Gentry. With the meat dishes will be green beans, sweet potatoes, pineapple salad, dressing, mince and pumpkin pie and egg nog.

Mrs. Otis Collier of Asbury Towers says residents of the home will be served turkey, oyster dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, green beans casserole, cranberry relish and mince pie.

G.C. Murphy board actions announced

At a meeting Dec. 16, the board of directors of G.C. Murphy Company designated chairman of the board S. Warner Robinson as chief executive officer and named President W. Fred Greenleaf as chief operating officer of the 529-store retail company which headquarters in McKeesport, Penn. The board actions are effective Jan. 1.

Robinson, a 37-year Murphy veteran, has been chairman of the board since July 1. He previously served as merchandise investment controller and subsequently as treasurer, vice president-treasurer, senior vice president-finance and, in addition, was vice chairman of the board before election as chairman. He continues as Chief Financial Officer and has been a Director of the Company since July 1970.

Greenleaf was elected as the company's president in May 1972 and has been chief executive officer since January 1973. He previously served store and district management assignments, was a buyer and merchandise manager, served as vice president and senior vice president-merchandise, and as executive vice president before his election as president. He has been a company director since 1969.

Murphy directors also elected Edward G. Procius as vice chairman of the board. Procius continues as senior vice president, with the board adding personnel to his responsibilities of employee, public and labor relations. A 43-year veteran, Procius served as a store manager and buyer, was elected a vice president in 1970 and advanced as senior vice president in 1973. He has been a member of the board of directors since July 1971.

In other board action, Aubrey R. Johnson was elected vice president-merchandise, moving up from his position as assistant vice president-merchandise. A 33-year veteran, Johnson completed previous assignments as a store manager, buyer and merchandise manager.

Charles H. Lytle was elected vice president-personnel. A 22-year veteran, he previously served as a store manager, director of training, assistant director of personnel and has been assistant vice president-personnel since May 1973.

Letters to Mr. C

With the Big day almost here, Santa reports that he has been checking over all the little boys and girls' letters, making sure that he has the right gifts going to the right persons, he told our reporter at the North Pole. Santa said he will make it to everyone's home Tuesday night and for all the children to sleep tight.

Santa says he will make ride again this year

NORTH POLE—With the Big Day less than 24 hours away, Santa is making his last check of letters listing the wants of children this year, it has been reported here.

Santa said he always reviews requests prior to his around-the-world ride on Christmas eve to make sure deserving children receive what they ask for.

Santa also remarked that he will be on time tonight, although, a late drag in the North Pole economy threatened to put some of his elves out of work and delay his ride.

But Santa noted that the elves showed good spirit—allowing the gift preparations to be on time.

The Great Gift Giver also sent some of these letters from children of Putnam County to the Banner-Graphic so that we might publish those items.

"This is in accordance with past policy" the Flanneled Philanthropist said.

A survey of the letters shows that children such as Hettie Allee wanted a "Baby Chrissy," and some clothes and shoes and booties. I also would like surprises," she writes.

David Ray writes that he has been a good boy this year—noting that he always picks up his toys when he is finished with them. "I also help mom around the house," he said.

David writes that he wants a truck and a putt-putt railroad among other items.

Jimmy Noll writes that he would like "a lot of toys".

From Becky Stewart comes a list noting a baby buggy, Disney organ, Barbie sewing machine, pottery craft and new shoes among the items.

Popular among the children along with clothes this year are Evel Knievel toys which Billy Ray Albright writes in that he wants.

Sharp promoted to assistant Union head

CLOVERDALE—Don B. Sharp has been promoted to assistant vice president at Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company according to an announcement today by John A. Nash, executive vice president.

Sharp is the son of Mrs. Marjorie Sharp of Cloverdale and the late Roy Sharp.

Sharp joined the local bank in May of 1970 as a trust administrative account manager. In February of 1972 he transferred to the bank's home loan department where he has been serving as a loan officer. He will continue to serve in this capacity.

Since joining the bank Sharp has attended the National Trust School at Northwestern University and has completed a ten week IUPUI course on residential appraising. He is currently enrolled in the ABA National Mortgage and Finance School at Ohio State University and has completed one year of the three year course requirements. He is a graduate of Richmond, Indiana high school and attended Ball State University. Prior to joining the bank he was manager of the Hill's Department store in Columbus.

Lions entertain at party

BAINBRIDGE—On the evening of Dec. 19, the Bainbridge Lions entertained their ladies at dinner at Torrs. Special guests were the district governor and his wife and the district secretary and his wife. District governor Eley spoke to the club on the theme of service stressing the use of head, heart, feet and entire body for local, state and international service. He especially called attention to the million dollar fund of international service to which all Lions are urged to contribute. He reminded the club of the district convention to be held in Crawfordsville on March 16 and the State Convention to be held in the summer.

Entertainment for the group was progressive bingo with many prizes passed from person to person. Special prizes were given to Mrs. Ralph Finchum for attendance and to Lucille Proctor and Frank Miller for door prizes.

The club has plans for the coming spring to help at the "500" race Indianapolis and for the Annual Fish Fry in June in Bainbridge.

IBM names director

Irving S. Shapiro, chairman and chief executive officer of E.I. du Pont de Nemours and Company, was elected today to the board of directors of International Business Machines Corporation.

In 1951, was assistant general counsel from 1965 to 1970, when he became a director, a senior vice president and a member of the executive committee. He was named vice chairman of the du Pont board in 1973 and has been chairman since Jan. 1.

Abbreviated final meet of the year

The final Putnam County Commissioners meeting of the year was held in an abbreviated session at the court house Monday morning.

The contract for operation of the Putnam County Landfill was signed by the commissioners for the contractor, Morris Scott.

The commissioners also discussed plans for operation of the landfill with the new contractor.

In relation to a query in the commissioners meeting last Monday by Robert Reel, Route 4, Greencastle it was announced that warning and 30 mile per hour signs had been placed on a West Walnut Street Road curve.

A story appearing in the Dec. 17 edition of the Banner-Graphic covering the events of that last meeting stated incorrectly that Harry Moore, Gilbert Olge, and John Masten were appointed to the Executive board of the Putnam County Plan Commission. Only Masten was appointed to the board.

McGaughey nets DAR award

ROACHDALE—Suzanne McGaughey has received the DAR Good Citizenship Award at North Putnam High School.

She was chosen from the senior class on the qualities of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism.

Suzanne is a varsity cheerleader and featured twirler with the marching Cougar band. She is a member of The Psi Chaps, Future Homemakers of America, Junior Classical League and National Honor Society. She has served as junior class president and is the current Indiana Polled Hereford Queen. Last January, Suzanne represented Indiana and Ohio at the National "Make It Yourself With Wool Contest" in San Diego, Calif. She has been a 4-H member for eight years and received the R.E.M.C. trip to Washington, D.C. last June. She is a member of the Russellville Christian Church and active in the Youth Group. She is also now serving as Worthy Advisor of the Russellville Rainbow Assembly.

Suzanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris McGaughey of Route 1, Russellville.

Tri County Club holds meeting

The Tri-County Club met December 11 for the Christmas dinner and meeting at the home of Dorothy Bullerick with Betty Frank assisting.

Seventeen members and three children were present. For devotions Jenny McClaine read "The Hour of Prayer," Tootie Bullerick read "Letter to Santa" and Mildred Neese read from "The Bread of Life."

Pre-cut bibs were given to each member to make for the nursing home. They are to be returned the next meeting.

Hostesses for the coming year were drawn. Mystery pals were revealed and names for the coming year were drawn. The new president Tootie Bullerick passed out and discussed the new club books. Each member turned in her Christmas stocking with the collection of each month.

At the close of the meeting a gift exchange was enjoyed by all. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer. The social hour followed by playing bingo. The January meeting will be at the home of Evelyn Rubeck with Mildred Neese assisting.

Dear Abby

Her brother has her baby

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago, our 19-year-old daughter (I'll call her "Carol") became pregnant by a young man who walked out on her, but she wanted to keep the baby anyway.

My eldest son and his wife were childless. They desperately wanted a baby, and seemed unable to have one, so I talked Carol into letting her brother legally adopt her newborn son. (Few people know this.)

About a year later, Carol married a fine young man and they moved 300 miles from here. Twelve months later Carol gave birth to another son.

Since Carol's marriage she has been very cold towards me. I would write her long, newsy letters which she would answer with short, formal notes. She never telephones me. I always call her. And there is no sign of real affection—just politeness on her part.

When my husband and I drove down for Carol's baby's christening, she put us up at a nearby motel. I know she has a guest room.

I am sure the reason for her coolness is because she now regrets giving up her firstborn, and she holds me responsible. I admit, the idea of my son adopting Carol's baby was mine, but I honestly thought it would be better for Carol, too.

What should I do, Abby? Stay in the background and wait until she comes to me? Or continue writing and calling and sending little gifts as I have?

SHUT OUT

DEAR SHUT: Continue as you have been. At least there is some communication between you and Carol. Don't take all the blame, Mother. Even though you say you "talked your daughter into giving up her firstborn," the ultimate decision was hers.

DEAR ABBY: I've heard of gold widows, fishing widows and baseball widows, but would you believe a dog widow? I've been married eight months and every Saturday and Sunday morning, my Harold grabs the morning papers and goes right for the lost and found section looking for lost pets.

He checks off those that offer big rewards, then he jumps into his pickup truck and goes out hunting for the lost pets. So far he has located four lost dogs and collected $300 in rewards. That's an average of $37.50 a month. We both work, and I would rather have Harold home for some good old-fashioned sleeping in on weekends than scouting for lost dogs.

Any suggestions?

DOG-GONED

DEAR D.G.: Offer Harold $35.00 a month to stay home.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a military man and has been for 17 years. He recently got orders to go overseas. He can take his family—all expenses paid—but he refuses to take us.

We've been married for only three years. We were separated once for three weeks and that was terribly hard on me. This tour would be between 18 and 24 months.

My husband says he can't afford to take us, but other Army men in the same circumstances manage. We have three kids. (We each had one when we got married and we had one together.)

Please, Abby, how can I make him take us with him? I love him so much I don't think I could live without him.

ARMY WIFE

DEAR WIFE: You can't force him to, but when a husband and wife come to an impasse, they should seek counseling together. If he refuses to go, go alone. The Army chaplain can advise you. Good luck, dear.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Is your Christmas tree fireproof? Are you sure you haven't overloaded your circuit with all those lights? Have a merry Christmas!

Love,
ABBY

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My husband was out of town and a jar lid just wouldn't budge. Should I "streak" to the kitchen for an opener, or skip my beauty treatment?

Grinning (fairly) at me from the towel bar was my lined shower cap! You guessed it. I placed the plastic side on the lid and had a firm grip inside with the terry cloth lining.

When my cap tears and the elastic is dead, you can bet it won't get pitched. It's earned its place under the sink with the bottles and jars at my house.

Sure do enjoy getting extra mileage out of my equipment and hubby and I got a chuckle out of my story when he returned.

It's great to have my man back home again. But when he isn't, I'm just a little more independent now!

Mrs. Jennifer Rauch

We all got quite a chuckle out of your letter, too. Thanks for writing.

Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Folks:

My daughter, who has been working with me for the past few weeks, just knocked over a glass of ice tea on my desk. In picking up the soggy papers, I could see, for the first time, that my desk is brown instead of white! One way to get a desk clean...

Now if we could do our houses this way...

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

A good tip for the vacuum is to place clean pieces of facial tissue into the new bag before you start to use the vacuum cleaner and add a few drops of your favorite cologne or whatever suits your fancy. Then, as the hot air leaves the vacuum, your whole house is scented with your favorite smell.

On the opposite side of the coin, if you pick up stale cigarette butts and ashes with your vacuum cleaner, then your whole house will smell of stale smoke.

E.A.F.

Dear Heloise:

I was making a large batch of cookies for my family this morning and had only two small wire cooling racks.

My rack for the portable barbecue grill was clean and, being quite large, it came in mighty handy to cool the cookies on.

Mrs. Thomas Brahany

Dear Heloise:

My family and I enjoy going to the cafeteria to eat, but we used to get there and find ourselves without a bib for our 2-year-old son.

Now my husband always carries one of his tie-tacks in his pocket. We can use any cloth napkin for a bib by fastening it in the back with the tie-tack.

Mom could carry one in her change purse if Dad isn't along.

Dorothy Bullock

Dear Heloise:

I've found a simple way to get ravioli out of the can without breaking them as you dig in with the spoon.

Simply open the can as usual, place the opened end on the bottom of the pan, puncture the other end with a can opener and lift.

The ravioli just oozes right out.

C.S.

Dear Heloise:

With winter and rainy weather here, I would like to share my easy and efficient way to put boots on children (grown-ups, too).

I just put a large old sock, with the top cut off, over each shoe and the boots slip on and off with no trouble at all.

Mrs. F.E. Machlis

Vance Hartke

Hartke explains committee inaction on surface transportation bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. Senator Vance Hartke today explained why the Senate Commerce Committee by unanimous vote on a motion by Senator James Pearson decided to take no action on the house-passed Surface Transportation Act.

Senator Hartke said, "There are several reasons why the Committee took no action on the Surface Transportation Act in this session. In the first place, the Secretary of Transportation had informed the Committee that he would recommend a veto of a bill that did not contain the so-called rate flexibility provisions in the house bill. Members of the Senate Committee were opposed to such provisions because they only provided rate flexibility one way—and that was up."

Hartke went on to explain that in this time of rising prices, the Committee members were not going to sign off on legislation that could contribute to spiralling inflation.

"Rate flexibility to us means the ability to lower rates as well as raise rates," he said.

"Another problem," Hartke continued, "was the shortness of time. Those of us who live with transportation day to day, of course, were in position to make judgements. I have been following the house bill on a continuing basis and have had the Commerce Committee staff preparing alternatives. But you cannot expect other Committee members to make such important transportation decisions on short notice without an opportunity for study and reflection."

Hartke stated that if the house had acted on the bill right after the November election, as anticipated, then something could have been done.

He further explained, "The final blow to Senate action in this Congress was struck by the railroads themselves. After meeting to mark up the bill three times in the last four days, and just when some consensus on certain important issues was being realized, the President of the American Association of Railroads communicated to the Committee the AAR's desire to wait until next year for a bill. Since the railroad industry was the entity to be helped and they themselves were asking for a delay, it was no longer essential to seek this legislation on an emergency basis."

Hartke complimented the House members who had worked long and hard to pass a bill and pledged his support to work with those members to achieve passage of needed railroad legislation early in the next session.

"I think we can put together a better bill next year," he concluded.

The class of '74

(C) 1974 New York Times News Service
WASHINGTON. -- The 93rd or Watergate Congress is now breaking up, and the chances are that the 94th, which convenes on Jan. 14, will be more liberal, more spendthrift, more partisan, and increasingly critical of the Ford Administration.

It will, for one thing, be much younger than the 93d. The House will have the largest freshman class in over a generation, 75 new Democrats and 17 new Republicans. The Senate will have 11 freshmen, eight Democrats, two Republicans, with a New Hampshire seat still undecided. This transfusion of new blood will almost certainly produce a new and activist spirit on Capitol Hill.

The change is likely to be more marked in the House than in the Senate. As Rep. Frank Thompson, D. N.J., has pointed out, the fall of Chairman Wilbur Mills of the Ways and Means Committee has tended to obscure much more significant changes in the power and composition of this key tax-writing body.

In the first place, membership on Ways and Means has been increased from 25 to 37 members, and without Mills in the chair, the committee is almost certain to be more responsive to the pressures for tax reform now gathering in the House as a result of the economic recession.

Furthermore, the Democratic caucus has stripped Ways and Means of its power to assign members to the various committees, and Speaker Carl Albert has promised that each new member will be given a seat on at least one major committee.

President Ford has promised to have his new economic program on the desks of the Congress on or before opening day and has added that he would "communicate, conciliate, compromise, and cooperate to the outer limits of my fundamental principles."

But his fundamental principles are much more conservative than the large Democratic majorities he will have to face in the 94th, whose party has been out of the White House since 1968 and is already mobilizing for the presidential election of 1976.

Thus the Democratic stage is being set for a replay of the early New Deal drama. As unemployment rises and the stock market falls, the instinct of the Democrats will be to spend their way out of the mess, and to portray Ford as another Herbert Hoover who will not fight a radical problem with radical measures.

This combative mood was already visible in the closing days of the old Congress. It took a visit by Secretary of State Kissinger to Speaker Albert's office this week to persuade the Democratic leaders not to cut off military aid to Turkey. Kissinger almost had to beg for a little more time to try to resolve the Greek-Turkish dispute over Cyprus. They gave him until Feb. 5 but warned him that unless genuine progress had been made to settle the Cyprus issue, it would do no good for him to request a further delay.

What we are beginning to see here are the reactions to the misuse of Presidential power in Vietnam and Watergate. The Congress is determined to try to regain some of the power it lost or abandoned to the President in the Postwar generation, to limit the scope of executive privilege, to limit the President's power to make war without the consent of the Congress, and to insist, if possible that the President spend all funds appropriated by the Congress.

In the five and a half years of Richard Nixon's Presidency, the Congress overrode only five of his 25 vetoes. Already in Ford's first four months, Congress has overridden four of his 15 vetoes, three of them in the last couple of weeks. Not since President Pierce in the 1850's has Congress rebuked the veto power so sharply.

It is, of course, too early to tell how the liberal-conservative factions will shape up on specific legislation such as taxes. The Ways and Means committee, even with the new members, is still slightly on the conservative side, mainly because of Wilbur Mills's draft choices in the past, but new members like Joe Fisher of Virginia, who replaced Joel Broyhill, are both knowledgeable and militant and are likely to give the administration a hard time.

In the Senate there are more presidential candidates than there are cuspidors, all of them determined to demonstrate that they can save the republic from economic privation and from Jerry Ford. So while Ford is offering to "communicate, conciliate, compromise and cooperate," it is not at all clear that the Democrats will take the same line, even if Democratic leaders like Senator Mansfield or Speaker Albert urge them to do so.

By the time the 94th meets, the chances are that the President will have revamped his cabinet and moved more strongly against the recession. This should give him some time but not much. The lines are being drawn for a very hard battle over not only economic and foreign policy, but for position in the 1976 campaign.

William Buckley

The molehill feud between senators from New York

The political writers, or some of them in any case, are attempting to feed, and then feast off, a monstrous feud between the senior and junior senators from New York State, which, in fact, is a molehill. And inasmuch as it illuminates both the temptation to inflate political differences, and the effects of such an inflation. Specifically, the question is: Who will inherit the position of chairman of the Republican Conference in the United States Senate, a position of exiguous importance, being vacated by Senator Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, who is retiring.

Senator Javits decides that he will run for the vacant position. He accompanies his statement with the usual business about how the Republican Party has to become more progressive in order to attract more voters.

Mr. Richard Rosenbaum who is the Republican State Chairman of New York, telephones Senator James Buckley and asks whether he will support Senator Javits. Mr. Buckley informs Mr. Rosenbaum that he is not given to announcing his position on leadership votes ahead of time; that he understands and sympathizes with that part of Mr. Rosenbaum's enthusiasm for the candidacy of Senator Javits that flows from state pride, and will weigh that factor before making up his mind.

Mr. Rosenbaum decides to apply a little pressure, which is not the quickest road to the affections of the sainted junior senator from New York, and travels to Washington to lobby for Senator Javits, which activity results in a number of telephone calls to Senator Buckley's office urging him to vote for his fellow New Yorker.

Senator Carl Curtis from Nebraska at this point announces his candidacy for the vacant chairmanship. Now Senator Curtis's Republicanism makes Senator Javits sound a little to the left of Mother Bloor. Senator Buckley, meanwhile, in his own post mortems on the Republican disaster of last November, had been suggesting that the Party should take a vigorous tack to the right, i.e., in the direction of Senator Curtis's politics, rather than Senator Javits's.

Which combination of events, prompted Senator Buckley to put an end to the lobbying for his own vote by fellow New Yorkers, by declaring, simply, that he would support Senator Curtis.

Now this did not surprise Senator Javits in the least. Indeed, it is a well-kept secret that he and Senator Buckley get along very well. They respect one another's differences rather than affect that such differences do not exist. Indeed, some of Senator Buckley's best friends are Democrats. Senator Javits accordingly issued a simple and dignified statement saying that he understood his colleague's preference for Senator Curtis given their ideological consanguinity; and that his feeling were not hurt in the least.

But any resolution so amicable, of a situation that could be fanned into a vendetta, did not satisfy the political writers. When last heard from, one of them, writing for the New York Daily News, under the blazing headline, BUCKLEY JAVITS SPAT A NEW BLOW TO PUNCHY GOP, reported that Senator Buckley's decision, "despite frantic efforts by state party leaders to hold the lid down and mute the resulting controversy," had caused "county leaders (to) react sharply, registering surprise, chagrin, disappointment, and downright anger."

This surprise, chagrin, disappointment, and downright anger, was downright surprising to both senators from New York, who now find themselves embroiled in a feud for which they have no particular appetite. There are professional and personal reasons for this. For one thing the two senators from any state even if in different parties, need to cooperate for certain purposes, such as naming judges, pork barreling, etc. For another, any stress on the ideological character of the quarrel between Curtis and Javits for the chairmanship tends to weaken the

Because it's there

(C) 1974 New York Times News Service

The search for the Northwest Passage—a water route from Europe to Cathay, across the frozen wastes of North America—was one of the great adventure stories of all time, the vain quest of Sir Francis Drake and Henry Hudson, finally discovered at the turn of this century by Arctic explorer Ronald Amundsen.

With a prosaic thud, the commercial consequence of this adventure was covered on the shipping news pages recently under the headline: "Waters off Jersey will become terminus of Northwest Passage." Icebreaking supertankers will one day be bringing millions of barrels of Alaskan crude oil down through the bays and seaways of Canada to offshore terminals near Cape May.

Once again we see the pragmatizing of a dream, the glory of exploration ending up in a big tank in New Jersey. But the search for the Northwest Passage always had a commercial impetus; what has happened to adventure for adventure's sake, the sweetening of life by risk that rejects the practical application of exploration or the commercial embodiment of Evel Knievel?

Sir Edmund Hillary, who led the expedition that conquered Mt. Everest, spoke of adventure the other day delivering the Frank Nelson Doubleday lecture at the Smithsonian Institution. "I have often resented the way that science has sometimes been introduced to justify an interesting adventure—particularly if a lot of money is required."

"Adventure is worthwhile for its own sake," said the man who had just come back from scaling some peaks in the Antarctic. "How many of us have been stimulated by some glorious effort that had no conceivable economic or scientific reward?"

Not many of us. The remnants of America's space program, a great adventure drowned in the sinking of America's national spirit after Viet Nam, is today justified merely on military, diplomatic and applied-science grounds.

When John F. Kennedy said "America has tossed its cap over the wall of space"—and what a beautiful figure of speech that was, of a kid presenting himself with a challenge—he did not say that spacefoods designed for astronauts would be great in school lunch boxes, or that satellite reconnaissance would make possible future arms controls agreements.

Essentially, the object was to shoot for the moon, which would not only enhance our national pride at beating the Russians there but lift our spirits at the thought of what puny man could do. But then we became self-conscious about our success, and embarrassed at spending so much money on pure adventure when there were mouths to feed on earth.

Accordingly, our space program today is justified on practical terms. The linkup of Soviet and US space capsules scheduled for July 17, 1975, is said to be important for detente, and to show other nations who the real superpowers are. The probe of the solar system by Pioneer 11 is said to be finding useful data on radiation belts and whatnot mumbo jumbo.

The reason we have poked a hole in the sky with a rocket is that we are as curious as hell to find out what is out there. Adventure is danger faced for the sake of curiosity, the rise to a challenge "because it's there." Such self-testing ennoble the human spirit.

Why, then, is there not great public fascination with the half-billion mile flight of Pioneer 11 to Jupiter, wonderment at its grazing the Jovian clouds and then using Jupiter's gravity to "crack the whip" and head for Saturn, a half-billion miles beyond?

The answer, of course, is that there are no human beings aboard and there can be no adventure without danger. But one day there will be men aboard (and women, and blacks, and young people, and ethnics) and this whole world will hold its breath as the human spirit reaches up and touches another whole world.

Viewed from centuries hence, these explorations will be the big news of our time, and our descendants will be amused at our self-consciousness at heavy costs of adventure without practical payoffs. Why couldn't we see that such contests and heroics provided the necessary moral equivalent of war?

That is why we can hope that NASA's publicists do not equip next year's Astronauts with link-up messages like "this is a giant step for detente" or "the march of scientific progress is irreversible."

Let our adventurer crawl through the passageway, stick out his hand and say something more appropriate to the gloriously impractical spirit of the occasion. Like: "Dr. Livingston, I presume?"

U.S. Steel rolls back

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration has obtained a partial rollback of U.S. Steel's recent price rise and now is questioning an increase by the No. 2 steel company.

U.S. Steel Corp., responding to President Ford's criticism of the price increase as inflationary, on Monday trimmed the rise by about 20 per cent. U.S. Steel last week had said it was boosting prices 4.7 per cent, but the industry leader said Monday it would reduce the price hike to around 4 per cent.

Shortly before U.S. Steel's announcement, its biggest competitor, Bethlehem Steel Corp., said it was raising its prices about 2½ per cent to "bring them in line with the competition."

Later, Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp., the ninth largest, said it was hiking prices 5.5 per cent on about one-sixth of its product line.

After U.S. Steel's announcement, Ford said in Vail, Colo., "I am pleased with the work that was done by the Council on Wage and Price Stability and the attitude of U.S. Steel in making this rollback."

Council Director Albert Rees had met Friday with U.S. Steel Chairman E.B. Speer to hear the company's explanation for the increase.

Speer said the decision to modify the Dec. 16 price increase came after that meeting. The company also pledged to try to hold prices stable for the next six months.

"U.S. Steel is taking this action because of its sincere desire to aid the nation in its fight against double-digit inflation," Speer said.

Rees said he was pleased by the rollback and said "We hope that Bethlehem Steel Corp., and C & I Corp., which have already announced price increases, will reconsider these recently announced price increases in the light of the U.S. Steel Corp. action of today."

The price council sent to Bethlehem Steel a telegram similar to others sent last week to U.S. Steel and C & I urgently requesting justification for the price increase.

Bethlehem said its increase was smaller than U.S. Steel's original hike "because our prices were generally higher because of increases we had made last September and October."

The new prices mainly affect the steel used to frame skyscrapers and bridges, carbon steel plates used for machinery, railroad products, pipe and tin mill products.

They do not affect steel that goes into the manufacture of automobiles, appliances and other consumer goods.

In other economic developments:

—Acting Chairman Al Ullman of the House Ways and Means Committee said his panel's first goal for 1975 will be to enact a sizable tax cut.

—The Agriculture Department said next year's winter wheat crop could be up 15 per cent from the 1974 harvest.

Ford orders Kissinger Get report on CIA domestic spying

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Angleton, named in published reports as overseer of alleged illegal domestic spying by the CIA, today told The Associated Press he has resigned as head of the agency's counterintelligence operations.

Angleton's resignation became known after President Ford ordered Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to get a report from the CIA "within a matter of days" on the allegations of domestic spying. Three congressional committee chairmen also announced Monday that they would launch separate investigations of the matter when Congress returns next year.

Meantime, a spokesman for Kissinger said Monday that the secretary "has never seen any survey of American citizens by the CIA and he doesn't know if any such survey exists."

But later, administration sources disclosed that Kissinger had seen one CIA document referring to activities inside the United States by American citizens or organizations. They said, however, that it was philosophical and did not reflect the results of any surveillance.

These sources said a CIA survey entitled "Restless Youth" crossed Kissinger's desk at the National Security Council in March, 1969. They described it as a general, philosophical discussion of the youth movement abroad with references to the attitudes of American students and youth in the United States during the 1960s.

Angleton, 57 and a veteran of 31 years in the intelligence field, said he would leave the agency at the end of the month. Angleton said he was resigning not because he felt he was guilty of any wrongdoing but because of what he said were the interests of the agency.

The New York Times had reported that he headed a domestic spying operation during the Nixon years that kept files on 10,000 American citizens and performed break-ins and surveillance in the United States.

A well informed source said the resignation had been arranged late last week in a meeting between Angleton and CIA director William E. Colby. Colby also was said to feel that Angleton was not involved in any illegal activities. It was understood that Angleton's public identification had been a factor in the resignation.

Another source, familiar with domestic counterintelligence operations, said that the FBI did not know about any CIA domestic spying and that former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover had been adamant that CIA not approach anyone at all in this country.

The CIA is prohibited by law from conducting intelligence or counterintelligence operations within the United States. That is the FBI's responsibility.

Documents obtained by Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., during his inquiry into the CIA's possible involvement in Watergate contained "references (to) an apparent CIA file" on columnist Jack Anderson.

A source within the CIA confirmed the existence of such a file and said it had been maintained by the United States Intelligence Board, an inter-agency panel whose members include the heads of the government's various intelligence services.

The board, whose responsibilities include developing intelligence estimates and priorities and overseeing security, compiled a dossier on Anderson after publication of classified documents in his syndicated column had blown the cover of CIA agents abroad, the source said.

Two sources said Angleton was questioned by the Watergate Special Prosecutor's office last winter in an attempt to determine if there was any connection between Angleton's unit and the White House plumbers unit. But one source familiar with that effort said the prosecutors could find no evidence of a link and the investigation was not pursued.

Angleton also came to the attention of one of the congressional investigations of Watergate.

A source familiar with that investigation said he got the clear impression that Angleton's operation was very secret and was feared by other CIA employees.

Kissinger has ordered an accounting by U.S. Ambassador Richard Helms, who was the CIA director during part of the period in which the alleged unlawful activities were said to have occurred. State Department sources said Kissinger would assemble information from Helms, Colby and others, probably within 48 hours. These sources said Kissinger will not make any recommendations although he may comment on the material he relays to Ford.

Rep. Michael J. Harrington, D-Mass., Monday questioned whether Kissinger was the proper person to be involved in any investigation of the CIA. Harrington asserted that Kissinger's other title, presidential assistant for national security affairs, made him responsible for directing CIA activities.

Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., soon to become chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he was "shocked by the revelations regarding CIA activities in the United States" and announced that he intends to launch an investigation when the new Congress convenes next year.

Separate hearings were promised by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, and Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., chairman of the House Armed Services subcommittee on intelligence. According to the Times, both men were briefed last year by Colby on the CIA's domestic activities.

A spokesman for Kissinger said Monday that "the administration will cooperate to the fullest with any appropriate investigation," including bringing Helms home from his diplomatic post in Iran to answer to "a duly constituted congressional committee." However, State Department spokesman Robert Anderson said Kissinger had no intention of agreeing to a demand from Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., that Helms resign.

SHOT TO DEATH

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Robbery "definitely is a motive" in the shooting death of Eugene R. Skaw, 36, police said. Skaw, an engineer for RCA Corp. was found in a vacant apartment Monday with three gunshot wounds in the back of his neck. Police said the pockets of his clothing had been turned inside out.

TRIAL SET

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge Cale Holder has set Jan. 20 as trial date for Vigo County Sheriff George Albright, indicted on federal civil rights charges. Albright was charged with planning narcotics on Glenn D. Barlow, 29, Mill Creek, and then arresting him. All charges were later dropped against Barlow.

Moderate winter may avert energy crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the bitter breath of deepest winter nears, there is good news for residents of the nation's most populous areas who worry that unseasonable cold might deplete home heating supplies.

The National Weather Service forecasts a 60 per cent chance that temperatures on the East and West coasts will be above normal this year.

Only in the Great Plains and the Upper Mississippi Valley do the forecasters assign a 60 per cent chance that temperatures will be below normal.

Elsewhere, the weather experts are giving even odds — a 50-50 chance — that temperatures might be either higher or lower than normal.

At the Federal Energy Administration, where planners must ponder what long cold spells might do to energy reserves, there is more good news.

If the nation has a normal winter, there will be no shortages of petroleum distillates, those crude oil products that keep furnaces roaring, the energy administration says.

If temperatures drop below normal, what FEA analysts call their "high demand option," there might be a 2 per cent shortage of distillates. But slight increases in petroleum imports or minimal conservation could make up the difference.

For residual petroleum products, such as the oils burned by electrical generating plants, a normal winter might bring a one-half per cent shortage. But even with a severe winter only a 1 per cent shortage is expected.

These shortages also could be made up by adjustments in imports or conservation measures.

For those who use natural gas to heat homes, there is little danger of shortages, even if temperatures are more severe than the National Weather Service predicts.

Sirica restrains self on Nixon pardon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attention at the Watergate cover-up trial again is focused on the absence of Richard M. Nixon as defendant or witness in the case that drove him from the presidency.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica started Monday to comment on the pardon granted Nixon by President Ford but then restrained himself.

"It's too bad — well, I better not say what I'm thinking," said the judge after the jury had been sent from the courtroom to begin a two-day Christmas recess. The jurors will do some last-minute Christmas shopping today and spend tonight and Christmas Day with their families in a hotel banquet room under the watchful eye of 27 marshals.

The issue of the Nixon pardon came up during William S.

Frates' closing argument to the jury on behalf of his client, former Nixon aide John D. Ehrlichman.

Frates recalled that prosecutor James F. Neal had likened the five cover-up defendants to members of an orchestra, saying that while some may play far less than others, all are essential parts of the total orchestration.

Frates picked up Neal's analogy and carried it a step further:

"Ladies and Gentlemen, we're missing one person here, the orchestra leader, that's who we're missing in this case."

Frates and his client have repeatedly charged that Nixon misled Ehrlichman about Watergate.

During his argument to the jury, Frates kept referring to the orchestra leader, without ever naming him.

Frates got only part way through his closing argument before the trial adjourned until Thursday for the Christmas recess. The case is expected to go to the jury Friday or Saturday.

After the jury was sent out of the room, Neal said he thought Frates should explain how far he intended to carry the orchestra leader theme.

Troops in Bethlehem

BETHLEHEM, Occupied Jordan (AP) — Church bells, prayers and tight security marked Christmas Eve today in the birthplace of Christ as Israeli troops checked every person entering the town in an effort to prevent Arab terrorism.

The army put up roadblocks on every route into hilltop Bethlehem and from 6:30 a.m. today until 5 a.m. Christmas morning was admitting only pilgrims and tourists carrying passes from the Israeli government.

Armed soldiers patrolled outside the Church of the Nativity, built by the Crusaders on the site which tradition says was the location of the manger in which Jesus was born.

A dozen bright-colored search booths, some covered with plastic shower curtains, stood nearby in the garden of the Palace Hotel for worshippers at the annual midnight mass to be checked for guns or explosives.

The Arab mayor of Bethlehem and local Arab merchants complained that the security precautions reduced the number of tourists and were not necessary.

Security has been tight every Christmas since Israel captured Arab Bethlehem from Jordan in the 1967 war. But it was intensified this year after a grenade attack Sunday in East Jerusalem wounded a girl in a party of Florida Baptists and a warning from the Palestine Liberation Organization that more tourists might be attacked.

Mayor Elias Freij, a Jordanian citizen, said the guerrilla threat was meaningless "because the Arabs — Moslem and Christian — respect Christmas. No Arab in this area would ever do anything to spoil Christmas."

"It is very quiet here and there is no need for all these precautions. I assure the people who come to Bethlehem that they will be completely safe."

But an aide of Premier Yitzhak Rabin said while it was customary for the Arabs to suspend hostilities during the Christmas season,

Santa a 33 year vet

COALINGA, Calif. (AP) — Many children in this rural Central California area know Santa Claus is real because he has made his pre-Christmas visits with gifts and goodies for 33 years.

Santa — who masquerades as a rancher named Roy Loftis the rest of the year — starts his rounds each Christmas Eve at 4 p.m., driving from ranch to ranch and home to home.

He used to keep it up until after daybreak Christmas morning, but an operation in 1972 forced him to cut back. Now Loftis gets home between 1 a.m. and 3 a.m. After such a stint, he says he spends most of Christmas Day sleeping.

"In 16 years of marriage, I've never spent a Christmas with my wife," Loftis says. "But she said that if I wanted to go on playing Santa Claus, she'd help me."

Mrs. Loftis wraps presents and prepares fruit and candy destined for needy children, while her husband fixes toys.

"For two or three days before Christmas, my house is really Santa's workshop," Loftis says.

Loftis estimates he has visited almost 6,000 children, and he says some of the youngsters he'll visit today represent the fourth generation from the same family.

Loftis says he started as a lad of 14 when a justice of the peace asked him to play Santa. He enjoyed it so much he never quit and now even gets letters at his ranch addressed to "Santa Claus."

Leftist Santas?

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — A group of leftist actors posing as "alternative" Santa Clauses has staged a series of performances throughout Copenhagen in what they say is an attempt to remove Santa from the "bold embrace of capitalism and commercialism."

The actors, who call themselves "The Chariot of the Sun," specialize in political street performances. So far this season one or more of the actors dressed as Santa has:

- Attacked the Labor Court building, which they referred to as "Home of Injustice to the Poor," with a bulldozer and pneumatic drills.
- Taken over a book stall at a department store and handed out books free of charge.
- Sixty "Santas" were arrested after the department store raid Sunday, but all were released. No charges have been filed against any of the "Santas."

"It's embarrassing to ask a child, 'What do you want for Christmas?' and have him say, 'You know what I want — I wrote you a letter,'" Loftis said.

He says he began gathering goodies for poor children after he went to the wrong house one Christmas and found the family was "as poor a family as I'd ever seen. They had absolutely nothing for Christmas."

Another rancher gathered some food, sweets and toys for Loftis to give the family.

MOORESVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A bank customer, unaware a robbery had just taken place, picked up some cash dropped by the holdup man and said, "Sir, you're dropping your money," witnesses reported.

The robber ignored the customer and fled from the Morgan County Bank & Trust Co. Monday in a car with three unsuspecting companions.

The three men, according to police, knew nothing about the robbery and had been waiting outside for the suspect to complete an errand. The three were dropped off east of here.

John L. Stewart, 32, Rt. 2, Camby, was arrested as he tried to ram a police roadblock, Chief Harold W. Martin said. Stewart was charged with robbery and held without bond in the Morgan County jail in Martinsville. The money — $2,832 — was found in the car.

"I took him to mean the man with the baton was Richard Nixon," said the prosecutor.

"Everyone knows who he meant when he said the conductor or the head of the orchestra wasn't here," said Sirica. "I've already ruled he doesn't have to appear because of the doctors' report" that said Nixon was too ill to testify before the trial is expected to end.

Then the judge asked if it was the defendant's position that they should be acquitted because Nixon was not going to testify.

"I can't answer yes or no," replied Frates.

Sirica said he didn't think it made any difference. None of the defendants had to obey Nixon if he told them to cover up Watergate, said the judge.

"They went into it with their eyes open," he said. "They're over 21. Some of them are lawyers."

In addition to Ehrlichman, the defendants are former White House aide H. R. Haldean, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, former assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson, one-time lawyer for Nixon's reelection committee.

Missing British MP arrested as illegal entrant to Australia

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — A member of the British Parliament who disappeared five weeks ago in Florida was arrested today in Australia on a charge of entering the country illegally, police said.

Detective Chief Supt. Mick Patterson said that 49-year-old John Thomson Stonehouse admitted entering the country on a false passport and would probably go before a court on Christmas Day.

The detective gave no explanation for Stonehouse's disappearance.

Police sources said Stonehouse had been traveling under the name of Markham and was arrested in a seaside suburb of Melbourne on a tip from Interpol, the international police organization.

Patterson said Stonehouse entered Australia at Perth airport on Dec. 10, 20 days after he disappeared in Miami Beach, Fla.

"Stonehouse has been frequenting Melbourne post office and receiving information from England. He may have been trying to get out of Australia," the detective said.

Stonehouse has been a Labor party member of the House of Commons since 1957 and was aviation minister and then minister of posts and telecommunications in Prime Minister Harold Wilson's 1964-70 Labor government. He was on a business trip to the United States when he disappeared on Nov. 20 after telling friends at his Miami Beach hotel he was going for a swim.

Stonehouse's wife, Barbara, told newsmen in London repeatedly that she believed her husband had drowned. But the Miami police refused to close the file on the case because the body had not been recovered.

British newspapers speculated that Stonehouse had been killed by the Mafia when a body encased in concrete was found near the beach on which he was supposed to have taken his last swim. But investigation proved that the body wasn't his.

Two British newspapers reported that a Czechoslovak agent who defected six years ago, Maj. Josef Frolík, claimed Stonehouse was a spy for the Communists. But Wilson told the House of Commons last week that Frolík's story was investigated at the time and no evidence was found to support his allegations.

There was also newspaper speculation in Britain that Stonehouse had gone underground because of reverses in international business deals he was trying to swing.

ROACHDALE—Two

property damage accidents were investigated by the Putnam County Sheriff's Department Monday night.

The first mishap occurred at 7 p.m. northeast of Greencastle at the intersection of County Road 1400 North and County Road 250 East.

Deputy Sheriff Gerry Hoffa reported that Raymond Booker, 50, Route 2, Roachdale, was driving a 1973 automobile and slid through the intersection and went through a fence at the Paul Sutherlin home and hit a utility pole.

Booker was not injured but damage to his car was estimated at $750.

Damage to the fence and pole was not listed in Hoffa's report.

Another one-vehicle accident occurred at 9:30 p.m. approximately 3½ miles east and 1½ miles south of Roachdale.

Deputy Sheriff Dave Young reported that Jerry Malayer, 36, Route 2, Coatesville, lost control of a 1973 truck he was driving on a hill and the truck struck a concrete bridge abutment.

Malayer also escaped injury but damage to the truck was estimated at $3,700.

To a beautiful life we have never known.

A place where God promised man he would be Eternally happy and safe and free. As the heavenly stars shone down.

But lo! A star in the East appeared.

To lead the wisemen to Him.

My love one too caught a glimpse of the light.

And followed its beams to his home.

I know he is waiting watching for me.

Somewhere not far from God's throne.

A wonderful land where we live.

When our journey on earth is new and through So trust in God and doubt him never.

For all who love him live forever.

And while we cannot understand.

Just let the savior take your hand.

For when death's angel come to call.

God is so great and we're so small.

And there is nothing you need fear.

For faith in God makes all things clear.

Oh heavenly Father, this night I pray.

O that, that light may shine again.

And shed its beam's to show the way.

That leads to heaven and him.

So sadly missed by his beloveds, Parents, sisters, brother's nieces, nephew.

County tourney openers set for Thursday night

The Putnam County Holiday Basketball Tournament will get underway Thursday night at McAnally Center in Greencastle with the host Tiger Cubs meeting the South Putnam Eagles in the opening varsity contest, preceded by a reserve scuffle between the Cloverdale Clovers and North Putnam Cougars.

Friday night's varsity action will pit Cloverdale against North Putnam, while the Friday preliminary game will feature the South Putnam and Greencastle B teams.

Saturday night the winners will meet for the respective county titles.

The reserve each night will begin at 6:45, with the varsity contest to follow at approximately 8:15.

Taking a look at the opening varsity matchup the host Tiger Cubs bring with them a record of 4-3 following Saturday night's heartstopping 80-78 loss to rugged Plainfield, while the Eagles dropped to 5-3 when Pittsboro rallied late to down them, 63-60.

The Cubs are still in the process of adjusting from the loss of center Rex Baker, the county's second leading scorer with a 16.0 average who popped his kneecap a week and a half ago at Clinton. Baker will have his knee drained again Thursday and is not expected back until January, hopefully in time for the Cubs' big WIC clash with West Vigo on the 10th.

In their two losses since Baker was sidelined the Cubs have given away a great deal on the boards, but have compensated with more scrap on their floor game, especially the full court zone press instigated by coach Jim Huter that has given opponents fits and the Cubs the ball more often than not.

In addition the Cubs have relied more heavily on leading county scorer Connie Hunter (19.8 ppg), who gets the first shot opportunity on most of their set plays, mainly from the 15-20 foot range where he connects on streaks with his elbow-out slingshot.

Helping pickup the slack inside has been Steve Bruce, a 6'2" senior who boosted his scoring average to 11.7 with his game-high 28 point performance at Plainfield.

The most noticeable aspect of the Greencastle game is Huter's reliance on his bench, from where already 5'10" junior and sophomore jumping jacks Bill Earl and Dan Whaley have come to earn starting jobs. With the Cubs pressurized game plan the bench is a necessity.

Heading this pressure will fall heavily on the shoulders of Eagle guards Keith Puckett and Kerry Ames, who have a pair of mobile forwards to work with to bring the ball upcourt in Mark Cowger and Mike Brown.

The 5'10" senior Brown came off the bench in the Eagles' Saturday loss to lead their scoring attack with 18 points. He also points the South Putnam version of pressure, their zone press that was most effective against Cascade in turning the game around little more than a week ago.

Cowger, a 5'8" senior, is the county's third leading scorer with 13.5 average despite only netting two points Saturday. pure outside shooter, Cowger can burn opponents when he else the matchups will be fairly even for the defenses. Except of course for the outside shooting of Hunter and Cowger, which, if they're hot, will be hard to stop.

The Eagles like to run, as do the Cubs when they can, which will cause the strength of their respective benches to loom as another important factor.

Friday night the Cougars of North Putnam will bring the county's best record to McAnally Center, and with them the biggest victim of the year after knocking off highly regarded Crawfordsville Friday night to set their slate at 5-2.

One of those losses came at the capable hands of state ranked Lebanon, the other on an off-night at Turkey Run.

The Cougars' opponents, the Cloverdale Clovers, have been struggling to get the .500 level this year with a rash of turnovers standing most in the North Putnam boasts the biggest front line in the tourney by starting a pair of 6'5" Brothers, junior Jim and sophomore Ron. Jim has come Clifford to back them up on the front line with Mike Bullerick and Jerry Miller anxiously waiting for the nod in the backcourt, all with the exception of Clifford having started at some time already this year.

Al Tucker has also been starting quite a few different ball players, but mainly in trying to find a combination that will win for the 3-5 Clovers.

Gary Neese, whose mainstays are quickness and hustle, the materials of which past Cloverdale championship teams have been made.

Coming off the bench for the Clovers will be the likes of seniors Kelly Bailey, Rick Langdon and Randy Barron.

on strong the last three games to up his scoring average to 13.4, fourth in the county.

Likewise coming to life of late have been 5'10" senior guards Mark Hess and Rex Call, the former who stands ninth in the county scoring standings with a 10.4 average following his game high 22 points against the Athenians. Call has hit 14 and 12 points in his last two outings to mark his first entries into double figures of the season.

The main word for Jim Sharp's Cougars is depth, as forwards Ron Brothers, Steve Bullerick and Mark Rossok all have been hitting at about a seven points per game clip, while he has at his disposal the likes of Rocky Paris and Mike

The Clovers' front line is anchored by 6'2" senior Tom Alexander and 6'2" junior Geoff Gale, who will give away three inches apiece to the Brothers. Alexander has been hitting at a 9.8 point clip (10th in the county) while Gale has had only one really productive offensive game, that against Eminence when he hit 19 points.

Cloverdale's leading scorer will also start in the front line, having shifted there from the backcourt in the last two games, 5'9" junior Rick Anderson. Anderson has been in single figures the last two times out but still holds a 13.3 average, fifth in the county.

Starting in the backcourt for the Clovers will be juniors Jerry Chestnut and since their season opening 54-37 loss to Greencastle, running up seven straight wins under the guidance of Ken Williams.

The Clovers' opponents in the reserve county opener, Jerry Olson's North Putnam outfit, also boasts an impressive slate with their only two losses against five victories coming at the hands of Lebanon and Crawfordsville.

In Friday's B team game Greencastle will pit their 5-2 record (losses to Crawfordsville and Plainfield) against South Putnam's 7-1 slate. Gerald York will coach the Cubs with Roger Fleetwood guiding the Eagles on crutches.

Malone's outburst leads Utah past Pacers, 103-99

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Utah's Moses Malone, the baby of the American Basketball Association, is growing up — but it's his elders who are suffering the growing pains.

"Malone just tore us up inside," said Indiana Coach Bobby Leonard after the Stars claimed a 103-99 victory Monday night.

The 19-year-old Malone, who jumped directly from high school to the ABA, finished with a game-high 33 points and a game-high 25 rebounds — both of which, incidentally, were personal career highs.

The Pacers fell behind early, thanks to Malone's inside work and veteran guard Ron Boone's outside shooting.

Utah led by 14 at one stretch in the third quarter, but the Pacers reserves, led by guard Billy Keller, cut the margin to three points late in the game before the Stars clinched it on free throws.

Boone finished with 25 points, while Indiana was topped by George McGinnis with 23 and Keller with 19.

"I thought the game, in a couple respects, was played as well as we've played all year," said Utah Coach Bucky Buckwalter. "Our team defense was excellent and, individually, Gerald Govan (who had 13 points, eight rebounds, five assists and two steals) and Malone probably played their best games of the year."

Malone's 33 points included 15 of 22 field goal attempts. He also had two assists, one blocked shot and one steal.

"Malone owned everything off the boards," Buckwalter added.

It was the only game scheduled in the ABA Monday night and the victory moved the Stars percentage points ahead of the Pacers in third place in the league's West Division, both teams now 12½ games behind Denver.

Cavs 95, Jazz 79
Bobby Smith scored 11 of his 15 points in the first quarter, helping Cleveland to an early lead, and the Cavaliers coasted the rest of the way. Cleveland led 52-38 at the half and went out ahead 73-54 on Dick Snyder's three-point play in the third period.

Kings 97, Bulls 87
The Bulls could manage only two field goals in the last seven minutes, while Scott Wedman scored 10 points in the fourth quarter for KC-Omaha. Nate Archibald led the Kings with 29 points and 10 assists.

Bullets 106, Bucks 103
Elvin Hayes hit two baskets in the last minute of overtime to give Washington its victory. Hayes wound up the game with 34 points. The Bucks led twice by two points in the overtime, but Wes Unseld finally tied it 99-99 before the Bullets went ahead.

Regulation play ended 95-95 on a basket by Unseld with 56 seconds left.

Warriors 111, Suns 94

Rick Barry scored 43 points, 26 in the third quarter, to bring the Warriors back from a 10-point deficit. Golden State trailed 59-49 with 10 minutes left in the third quarter. But Barry scored 16 of the Warriors' next 18 points while Phoenix went scoreless, pushing the Warriors ahead 67-59.

Malone 15 3-8 33, Govan 4 5-6 13, Eakins 4 7-7 15, Smith 2 2-3 6, Boone 10 5-7 25, Jones 3 0-0 6, Brown 1 2-2 5, Dickey 0 0-0 0. Totals: 39 24-33.

Bart Starr grabs Green Bay coaching reins

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr, who quarterbacked the Green Bay Packers to championship glory under the legendary Vince Lombardi in the 1960s, was named head coach and general manager of the National Football League team today.

Starr, who retired as a player in 1972, succeeds Dan Devine, who quit Dec. 16 to become head football coach at Notre Dame, replacing Ara Parseghian.

Starr, now 40, first came to the Packers in 1957 as an obscure 17th-round draft pick out of Alabama. After two ineffective seasons, he became the team's starting quarterback late in 1959, Lombardi's first year as Green Bay's Coach.

In the next eight years, the Pack won six divisional and five league titles—and added the first two Super Bowl championships to its unprecedented collection of titles in 1966-67, with Starr named the Most Valuable Player each time.

Starr, who still owns the NFL career completion percentage record at 57.4 per cent, had his best season in 1966, when he completed 156 of 251 passes—62.2 per cent—for 2,257 yards and 14 touchdowns and had only three passes intercepted.

But the next year, he was injured by blitzing linebacker Tommy Nobis of the Atlanta Falcons, and that began a series of physical troubles which finally drove him out of the game.

County cage shootout starts Thursday

McAnally Center will be the site of the annual Putnam County Holiday Basketball Tournament which gets underway Thursday night. Tiger Cub coach Jim Huter will put his host nam Cougar crew in Friday's varsity tilt. The winners play the championship game Saturday. Each varsity contest will be preceded by a reserve tourney game.

Marquette drops out of top ten

Indiana holds second spot in AP poll

By The Associated Press
Marquette's fortunes slipped last week as Al McGuire's troops lost twice and tumbled out of The Associated Press' Top Ten in today's weekly college basketball poll.

The highly regarded Warriors, who had a solid grip on sixth place a week ago, lost it when they lost 65-58 to unranked Pittsburgh and 80-69 to fourth-ranked Louisville. Marquette fell to 14th, replaced in the Top Ten by Arizona, which jumped from 13th to 10th.

The first five teams, headed by defending national champion North Carolina State, retained their positions. The Wolfpack, 6-0 with last week's 95-79 victory over Davidson, earned 25 of the 40 first-place votes by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters for 812 points.

Runnerup Indiana, 7-0, scored convincing triumphs of 71-53 over Creighton and 97-60 over Nebraska and picked up 15 first-place votes and 766 votes. UCLA's Bruins, outlasting Memphis State 113-94 and rallying to turn back Notre Dame 85-72, held third with one first-place vote and 690 points.

Louisville and fifth-ranked Maryland also got one first-place vote apiece with the Cardinals well entrenched in fourth place with 614 points to the 497 for the Terrapins.

Southern California's Trojans pulled out victories over Houston, Vanderbilt and New Mexico, raising their record to 7-0 and moving up one spot to sixth with 406 points. Alabama also moved up a place to seventh, getting the two remaining first-place votes and 393 points.

North Carolina jumped over Pennsylvania into eighth with 309 votes, 40 more than the ninth-rated Quakers. Then came Arizona, rounding out the Top Ten with 208 points.

In the Second Ten, South Carolina vaulted three spots to 11th with 194 points and Providence vaulted up four to 12th with 101. Notre Dame slipped down one to 13th with 86 points, six more than Marquette and seven more than Purdue, which held 15th.

Memphis State dropped from 11th to 16th place, Kentucky jumped from 20th to 17th, Oklahoma dropped down one to 18th, Oregon remained No. 19 and Rutgers joined the select circle in 20th place. Kansas, 18th a week ago, didn't play last week but the Jayhawks still slipped from the list.

scoring two touchdowns in 1:21 to knot the game at 31-all with 2:17 to play.

First, Tommy London rammed nine yards and a pass for the two-point conversion failed. Moments later, after Wolfpack special teamer Louis Alcamo recovered an on-sides kick, quarterback Dave Buckley jumped one yard for a touchdown.

North Carolina State, an underdog despite its No. 13 national ranking, still remained two points behind. Stan Fritts, a second-team All-American, took care of that with a bullish run for the two-point conversion.

Despite thrilling rallies by both teams, neither dressing room was overjoyed.

"It's too bad you can't play off a tie bowl game," a disappointed North Carolina State Coach Lou Holtz said. "Both teams feel like they lost it."

Blue-bonnet Bowl ends in 31-31 thriller

HOSTON (AP) — The second smallest crowd in Astro-Blue-bonnet Bowl history and a national television audience saw two games for the price of one in the 16th renewal of the Astro-dome Monday night.

The first game lasted until early in the fourth quarter and ended with North Carolina State and Houston tied 17-17.

Then the fireworks started and before the final gun sounded with the score still deadlocked at 31-31, four touchdowns were scored and the Astro-dome's million-dollar scoreboard — which lights up with each score — may never be the same.

After a humdrum first half, the Cougars started the excitement with two rapid-fire fourth-quarter touchdowns that gave them a 31-17 lead with 7:55 left in the game.

Houston's Eddie Foster disappeared behind the North Carolina State secondary and emerged with a bowl-record 73-yard touchdown pass play from quarterback Bubba McGallion to ignite the volley before a disappointing crowd of 35,122.

On the Pack's ensuing series, Joe Rust returned an interception 42 yards to set up a five-yard touchdown run by fullback John Housman, the game's outstanding back, who rushed 134 yards on 21 carries. That gave the Cougars a 31-17 lead but the Pack came back

Cincinnati nears franchise agreement with ABA

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Brian Heekin, president of the Riverfront Coliseum Corp., confirmed Monday that an agreement is near that would bring an American Basketball Association franchise to Cincinnati next year.

"I would hope we could settle the lease within a week—two at the most," Heekin said.

Negotiations have been going on for months between Heekin, Kentucky Colonels' owner John Y. Brown and ABA commissioner Tedd Munchak, who hopes to head the Cincinnati club.

Heekin said Munchak has not decided on a coach or signed any players yet. Heekin's group has spearheaded construction of an 18,000-seat arena which will be ready by next fall.

How to keep well

Four main food groups

By T.R. Van Dellen, M.D.
Ideally, an adequate diet includes all 50 or so known nutrients: proteins (amino acids), fats (fatty acids), carbohydrates (sugars and starches), vitamins, minerals and water.

A variety is needed because no single food (including milk), contains all the necessary nutrients.

Nutritionists have simplified the selection of a good diet by devising four basic food groups. They suggest that we eat one or more servings from each group in order to get what we need. Hundreds of unessential foods (spreads, dressings, desserts, snacks, beverages) compliment our four main groups.

BLOOD VESSEL DISORDER
O.L.T. writes: What is thromboangitis obliterans? I understand it is a disease of the blood vessels.

REPLY
This is a circulatory disease that involves all the blood vessels of the body and is similar to hardening of the arteries. It is a disease of young men, closely related to smoking, and is manifested by pain or cramps in the calf of the legs when walking. The first thing the victim is told to do is to stop smoking. When the condition is neglected, gangrene develops.

D.G. writes: Is stiff neck one of the early signs of leukemia?
REPLY
No, this symptom rarely is associated with leukemia. But swelling of the glands of the neck may be caused by leukemia.

B. J. Becker

'Twas the night before Christmas—
Two guests in our house
Had started to play bridge
With me and my spouse.

"Please tell me," she shouted,
"Why didn't you double?"
'Twas plain from the start
That we had them in trouble.

"'Tis futile, my dear,"
Said I, taking no stand,
'To discuss it with you—
Let us play the next hand."

"Remember next time,"
Said she, icing a frown,
'To double a contract
That's sure to go down."

So I picked up my cards
In a downtrodden state,
Then I opened One Spade
And awaited my fate.

East dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

Did I hear what I heard?
The other two passed
And in sheer disbelief
I said, "Double, my friend,
That'll bring you to grief."

South passed with a nod,
His composure serene;
My wife with a flourish
Led out the heart queen.

I sat there and chuckled
Inside o'er their fix—
But South very calmly
Ran off eight straight tricks!

He ruffed the first heart
In his hand right away,
And then trumped a club
On the very next play.

He crossruffed the hand
At a breathtaking pace,
Till I was left holding
Five spades to the ace.

In anguish my wife cried,
"Your mind's growing old!
Don't you see six notrump
In this hand is ice cold?"

By doubling this time
I'd committed a sin—
It just goes to prove
That you never can win.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Jill's love problem is widespread. For introverts tend to be literalists and lacking in the jovial humor of those who have an elastic imagination. Use Santa Claus, fairies and elves, as a quickie test of vivid imaginations!

CASE C-632: Jill S., aged 27, is frustrated concerning love. "Dr. Crane," she began, "I've been dating a chemical engineer for 3 years.

"He is 32, has a good position and is very attractive looking.

"But he lacks a sense of humor!

"For he tries to take everything literally. He seems to lack an elastic imagination.

"Last fall, for example, we went fishing and had mediocre luck.

"So when we got back home, I exaggerated a wee bit concerning the size of my fish.

"But he corrected me every time and cited the exact measurements of my catch, even though I was merely trying to dramatize a bit and excite my Dad!

"He also is very picayune regarding religion, saying that Christmas is merely the stolen holiday that the Romans had long celebrated.

"In that connection, he also believes it is criminal to let kiddies believe in Santa Claus.

"And he even opposes letting children read fairy tales!

"Dr. Crane, I think I could fall in love with him if it weren't for his lack of a vivid imagination, so can that be developed?"

CHRIST'S HYPERBOLE

Chemists, physicists and other workers with inanimate objects tend to be literalists, lacking in the sense of humor that extroverts develop.

Salesmen and similar extroverts thus laugh uproariously at jokes which cause barely a ripple of response from chemists and other introverts.

Jesus thus had that wide social perspective that made him astonish his meticulous religious critics when he told them:

"The Sabbath was made for man; not man, for the Sabbath."

And he employed hyperbole, that basic tool of fishermen, golfers, gag writers, salesmen, artists and all people with an elastic imagination.

For hyperbole is extravagant exaggeration to the point of the ridiculous.

"Ye strain at gnats," Christ reprimanded the literal religionists, "but swallow camels!"

If he had said they strained at gnats but swallowed bumblebees, that would have been a decided exaggeration.

But not hyperbole, for the latter is ridiculously extravagant exaggeration, and thus produces laughter.

True enough, the early Christians seized upon the Roman "Feast of Light" for Christ's Bethlehem birthdate in December.

For Jesus was regarded as the "Light of the World" and it was also smart Applied Psychology to capitalize on an already well publicized holiday.

That's also why St. Paul at Mars Hill capitalized on the Greeks' inscription to an "Unknown God" and then told the crowd that he was there to inform them about that "Unknown God."

Santa Claus, too, is merely a visible and appealing way to show kiddies that God was the Earth's first Santa Claus and offered the infant Jesus as the first Christmas present to mankind!

The Three Wise Men then became Santa's Helpers, as are the commercial Santas now seen in department stores.

And children identify or empathize with fairies and elves, for the usual pre-school toddler lives in a world of giants (adults) who tower twice his height and 8 to 10 times his weight.

So kiddies regard themselves as elves since they are surrounded by omnipotent and omniscient giants and giantesses (Daddy, Mother and Teachers).

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, DEC. 25, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to quietly enjoy Christmas pleasures and to follow the principles and precepts of the Prince of Peace whose nativity is now celebrated. Express a grateful well-being and happiness with those to whom you are devoted.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) This should be a very happy day for you. Stay on the practical level in helping others, especially the needy. Don't overdo.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have fine, practical ideas this Christmas Day that can bring much pleasure to others. Get together with family and friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Although busy entertaining or being entertained, plan the future more wisely than in the past. Assist one who is in dire trouble.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Ideal day to show good friends in some tangible way how much you think of them. Evening is fine for entertainment.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) After family reunion, be sure to see those friends you want to remember on this day. Take time to plan a brighter and happier future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make as many new contacts as you can with persons whose background of experience is unlike yours. Express happiness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) By living the Golden Rule you can be helpful to others. Keep busy at what you have to do and make this a very happy day.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Fine day for being with those you love and expressing the true spirit of Christmas. Take time to serve the unfortunate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your day to really be of service to others and to gain the blessings that come your way. Have a worthwhile time tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Being happy in the company of family, relatives and friends is the best way to spend this day. Think constructively.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Rid yourself of any possible tensions and make this a most memorable day. Show friends that you are a thoughtful person.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Excellent time to be with close family ties. Also, visit close friends and express happiness. Have a very happy day.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a practical mind and should have the education directed along such lines. Courses in ethics and religion should be added to the curriculum for best results. There is artistic talent and great ability to make money in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Zappa's Dream: a Group of 80

FRANK ZAPPA

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Weird was always the word for Frank Zappa and the Mothers of Invention. In 1966, when the group's first album, "Freak Out," came out, writers found it "pure trash" and the group outrageously offensive.

These days, Alice Cooper gets more publicity for outrageousness. Seen on a day when he's recovering from flu, Zappa isn't being outrageous at all. His goal, he says, was to put out records that made money, because the reward for doing that is being allowed to put out more records and he likes to make records. Beyond that, his goal was quality music.

Big sheets of music composition paper are on Zappa's desk as we walk into the room, he is working on music for two albums he'll begin recording in December. One piece, in several sections, will tell the story of "a pig who invents something that makes life miserable for everybody. He invents the calendar. This makes it possible for people to collect rent and everybody to find out how old they are. At first it's okay; they can have birthday parties at the office. But kids don't like it when they find out how old they're getting. Gregory is chased into the woods by psychedelic buses and daisy-covered cars driven by aging hippies. He has a narrow escape with the youth of America and in the end is driven to consult a philosopher who charges him a lot of money for very little information."

This recording, Zappa says, is going to use "an orchestra, recorded in the rock 'n' roll way. Every note that's in the score will be there." Zappa says there probably never has been a perfect symphony recording—one instrument covered the sound of another more than the composer intended or something else went wrong.

The rhythm section will be recorded — electric bassist, drummer, two percussionists, keyboard player with four instruments. "Then the guitars will go on. All instrumental parts that might be hard to get perfectly will be done on a synthesizer. You can save the tape down and get rhythmic and pitch accuracy."

Then at the end of 21 days for that, he'll get a copyist to make parts from the rest of the score. "Then we'll put the string section on two tracks one day, the next day the brass on two tracks, then the woodwinds on two tracks, then the narration and vocals, then mix it. I expect it to have combinations and tone qualities that haven't been heard ever before."

Right now, the Mothers of Invention is six persons. But, if money was no object, Zappa says it'd be 100 or maybe 80.

An East Coast tour played 31 shows from Oct. 28 to Dec. 1. September was spent in Europe. A southern U.S. tour will come in February and after that a trip to Germany to work with a symphony orchestra, then a tour of Japan. Zappa performs about seven months a year.

At 15 he had two records he adored by the modern classical composer Edgard Varese. "One was 'Ionisation,' 13 performers playing 32 percussion instruments, including two sirens and a lion's roar. My mother insisted I do not play that record in the living room when she was ironing."

"I didn't have much money so I used to have a few records and listen to them over and over. I had a 'Rite of Spring' by Stravinsky and music for two pianos and percussion by Bartok. My tastes were different from everybody I was hanging around with."

But Zappa kept listening to what he liked and soon started writing what he liked. He still buys records of new classical music but doesn't like most of it, especially finding the German composers "suffering from severe terminal disease."

He started performing in Pomona, Calif., in places that played "The Anniversary Waltz" with one twist number per evening. Then the go-go bar was invented and he started playing all twist numbers. He joined Ray Collins, Roy Estrada, Jimmy Carl Black and Davey Coronado in Pomona when their guitar player quit. He suggested they play his original material. Coronado said if they did that, they'd be fired. They were. Coronado left them and the other four went on for about a year, working a place about four nights until the owner found out they weren't playing hit songs. "I used to find and sell empty pop bottles to buy baloney and gasoline."

They played at a party in Hollywood that was being filmed for the movie "Mondo Hollywood" and got hired at the Action, one of the four rock 'n' roll clubs in Hollywood at that time. The owner liked the fact that if an audience got obnoxious, Zappa got obnoxious back, generating some publicity.

"I still treat an audience the way they treat me. If they're nice, I'm not there to make their life miserable. But I've kept to not taking junk from the audience."

"You know, our audiences have changed vastly. Our initial appeal was to middle-class white boys, mostly Jewish, around 17. Ninety per cent of our mail came from that
